GPE's Director of Digital & Technology, Jordan Mclean, reshapes team to deliver new strategy

GPE announces that its Director of Digital & Technology, Jordan Mclean, has re-shaped his team to improve and accelerate the delivery of new technology products and services, and further enhance GPE's customer experience across its portfolio.

Jordan has recently welcomed Margherita Ceraolo, who joined GPE as Head of Digital & Technology Delivery in May. Margherita brings a wealth of experience in the technology sector, having held roles as Head of Technology Delivery at YOOX Net-A-Porter, and Delivery Manager at Autotrader. Margherita has over 10 years of experience in leading the delivery of technology initiatives and ensuring stakeholder alignment. Margherita will work with Shaq Campbell to deliver an improved digital experience for our customers, including enhancing our Sesame® app, as well as owning GPE's innovation framework and pipeline.

Jordan Mclean commented: "We focus on delivering best-in-class workspaces to our customers, and therefore it is vital that we are constantly evolving and improving our approach to delivering digital and technology services. With the team now in place, we are well set to enhance the experience for all customers within our buildings."
